The Good, The Bad, & The Hungry: Managing Wildlife Conflict in the Landscape

While the growth of cities and suburban areas can displace some wildlife, many species actually thrive in these areas. Viewing these species as they travel through your backyard can be enjoyable, but sometimes conflict arises—usually in the form of eaten plants, dug up bulbs, burrows under porches, or holes in the lawn. Fortunately, most wildlife damage can be managed with the right techniques and strategies.

Please join us in this all day workshop as we discuss a variety of wildlife species and the best strategies to lessen the damage that can occur. Come ready to share your questions/stories about pesky wildlife!
